

OATHBOUND GREEKS

A History of the Movement which Precipitated War.

BUT ONE MEMBER IN AMERICA.

The Ethnikos Hetairia and its Ramifications in Every Stratum of Greek Society. A Nephew of the Great Marco Botzari High in Authority—Has a Large Membership in Turkish Territory.

New York World: In 1812 two young men of Epirus formed a secret society, the Ethnikos Hetairia, whose solemn aim was to prepare an uprising of all the Hellenic race and effect nothing short of the abolition of Turkish rule in Europe. For a time the organization prospered, and the accessions to its ranks were numerous. Then dissensions arose between the leaders, and finally, through Russian influence, the Hetairia practically ceased to exist.

Several attempts have been made to revive or rebuild the Hetairia, to incite rebellion in the Greek provinces of Turkey. The first was in 1854. It succeeded in instigating several raids in Epirus and Thessaly, but the powers, by landing troops at Piræus, prevented the spread of the movement.

The present Ethnikos Hetairia dates from the outbreak of the insurrection in Herzegovina. A band of Greek officers and patriots revived the secret society, their aim being to provide every inhabitant of Epirus with arms and ammunition. Commanding, however, the prime minister of Greece was the leading spirit. Every Greek consul in Turkey was placed at the service of the Hetairia.

All the prominent Greeks in each community from the bishop of the province down were initiated into the society. But the Greek government was not ready to back the league, hence it did not succeed beyond causing a few raids in Thessaly and Epirus. It did manage, however, to build up a vast membership in Macedonia, bound to obey a secret authority and to move at its dictation. The league did not allow any of its members in Turkey to know each other as members, and very few of its prominent members were known outside of a limited circle of managers.

Bishops and consuls were the local authorities of the secret society in Turkey. The password, "Gregoritis kai proskerkto" (Be vigilant and pray), was given in church one Sunday every month from the mouth of the officiating priest, and this served to remind the members of their allegiance.

The work of the Hetairia was supplemented by a legion of open societies, the Society for the Propagation of Greek Letters, which was the principal agency. It endeavored to exact an allegiance to the league from the teachers sent to the different posts in the interior of Macedonia and Epirus.

Two years ago a great impetus was given to the extension and work of the Hetairia. At the call of the invisible and unknown leaders a mass-meeting was held in Athens, the formation of a great league to provoke an uprising of the Hellenic race against Turkey was advocated by many men prominent in politics and letters. Hundreds and thousands of men enlisted. Professors of the university headed the roll, which included the humblest vegetable dealers of the Lakus street.

Up to this time the league kept its existence so secret that many people took the mass-meeting as the real start of the society, and the leading newspaper of Athens deprecated the activity of the league because it was "a conspiracy formed in open daylight and trumpeted through the newspapers."

In the last two years the initiations into the society have changed. The former were longer voluntary, but graduated according to the means of the adept. Candidates, wherever able, must purchase their own arms. Badges have been adopted bearing the Greek cross and the inscription, "En Touto Nika." The oath taken by members imposes a paramount allegiance to either king or constitution. In the United States there is but one member of the Hetairia.

The management of the overt acts of the society is in the hands of M. Gousios, whose real position is that of grand commander of the Macedonian outposts. The deputy, Col. Botzari, a nephew of Marco Botzari, the revolutionary hero of 1821, is the grand commander of Epirus, and Col. Spirito Millo is at the head of the movement in Albania. Minas Lappas, Chieftain Dzimara, of Lakka and Cotto Fotis, of Chirmara, are among the local "taxiarchi" in Epirus.

MURDER AND SUICIDE

A Confidential Clerk, Guilty of Embezzlement, Shoots His Former Employer.

CHICAGO, April 23.—John H. Rapp, a wholesale liquor dealer, was shot and killed to-day by his former secretary and confidential clerk, B. W. Breunschweig, who afterward put the revolver to his own temple and killed himself. The murder and suicide occurred in the presence of Philip Solomon, a deputy sheriff who had a capias for Breunschweig's arrest on a charge of embezzlement. Some time ago Breunschweig was found to be about $2,500 short in his accounts. Criminal action was brought against him but he eluded the officers and yesterday wrote to Rapp asking for a meeting for the purpose of effecting a compromise. This was arranged and a deputy sheriff was asked to be present, ready to arrest Breunschweig.

Kansas Cyclone.

NEWTON, Kas., April 23.—A small tornado which passed one mile west, of here last night wrecked several houses, injured three occupants, killed many cattle, uprooted orchards and groves and smashed thousands of panes of glass. J. W. Weems had an arm broken; his wife was rendered unconscious and was severely bruised and the little daughter of J. C. Chandler was slightly hurt. It is not thought any fatalities will result.

Declared Unconstitutional.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 23.—The decision of Judge Showalter, of the United States circuit court, Chicago, involving the three cent street car fare, was received by the clerks of the federal court in this city to-day. The Hugs law is declared to be unconstitutional, because it is special legislation, applying only to the city of Indianapolis.

The Enemy Is Ours!

The gripe usually leaves the sufferer in a very feeble condition, with a persistent cough and other premonitory symptoms of pulmonary affection. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup promptly administered at the beginning of an attack of gripe, will forestall that dangerous enemy to life—consumption. Mrs. Maggie Tulga, Ironton, Ohio, says: "It affords me much pleasure to bear testimony to the merits of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. I had been a sufferer from the gripe for a week, I tried a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, and after taking it, was completely cured of the dreadful cough and disease. I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers." Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is sold everywhere for 25 cents.

WEYLER'S COMMISSION

To Propose Autonomy for Cuba Refused an Audience by Gen. Gomez.

NEW YORK, April 23.—A letter to the World from Havana dated April 15, says: General Weyler has put down his last card here and lost. His commission has reported to him that Gen. Gomez will not receive it. The members are Senor Marcos Garcia, of Sancti Spiritu, Sportuno, of Trinidad, and Fernandez, of Cienfuegos.

They sought to carry to the rebel chieftain a message that if he would end the war Spain would grant the most perfect autonomy to Cuba under the safest guarantees. Gen. Gomez sent word that they would not enter his camp; his sole exchange for peace was liberty and independence.

The World courier saw General Weyler on deck of a steamer at Tunas last Monday night ordering the guardia civil to clear the pier of the crowd waiting to take the boat. The soldiers clubbed the people with guns, but the crowd did not move fast enough to suit the general. He swore fearful oaths calling the people vile names and finally sent Escarban, his chief of staff, to make the people go away.

Escarban with a club laid about him, knocked down several of the quietest and most influential citizens of the district. Pedro Lopez, a cattle owner shipping cattle was knocked down a hatchway by one of Weyler's lieutenants. Weyler went to Jussaro, returning at 5 a. m. He refused to go in the cars to Sancti Spiritu, but went on horseback guarded by 1,100 men. As he passed along he withdrew soldiers from the forts protecting the railroad. Soldiers overcame by the heat or dead, were left on the road.

Weyler crossed the road at the exact spot where Quintin Bandera had crossed with a large force of Cubans the day before. Gomez, Bandera and other patriotic leaders were camped near Sancti Spiritu. Their location was well known but Weyler made no effort to attack them. Bandera then with perfect ease, crossed the trocha and now is in Puerto Principe. Signs that Spain is hard pushed are being more and more manifest. The troops guarding imperial ways are being withdrawn and the garrisons of the interior towns and cities are being reduced. Soldiers by the hundreds are leaving for Spain by every steamer. Their places are taken by forces transferred from the country. Thus the interior is being abandoned, the seaports more strongly protected and a considerable number of troops sent back home.

All these are moves in the desperate game Spain is forced to play. She must have money and to raise a loan is impossible, as long as the war in Cuba continues.

General Weyler is getting ready to declare the island pacified. As proof it will be announced that there is no longer war for so large an army and it consequently is being reduced. The rebels are active in every province. They never were more powerful.

Peter Delivered From Prison.

One is apt to become confused concerning the Herods of the New Testament, but it is impossible to go amiss as to their characters. They are so like in ambition, luxuriousness, and cruelty. Herod Agrippa had "sowed wild oats" with Claudius in Rome before he came to the purple, who remembered him now by giving him the kingdom. He was political; was bent on retaining his office, which yielded him $2,000,000 per annum. Finding it pleased his subjects for him to take the life of one apostle, he proceeded against the chieftain of them. . . . Hypericly posthonest a dastardly deed for seven days, that the fair face of religion may not be marred. But after the Passover, Herod will butcher an apostle to make a Hebrew holiday. . . . How much happier Peter was in prison than when he escaped prison by swearing and lying! All we know of his prison-life is that he slept. This is significant of his trust and composure. . . . What shall the church do in this emergency? Draw up a petition for pardon, and canvass Jerusalem from house to house for signatures? Send a forlorn hope to storm the Castle Antonia? No! Pray, only pray! Preposterous! But the church does not think so. There was a continuous prayer-meeting in the house of Mary, the mother of Mark, seven days and nights. In the last watch of the last night, Keph fancies that when the angel roused Peter, he thought it was his executioner, and started up, glad that he was thought worthy to suffer: His dream was changed: the tyrant's voice.

Calls to the last of glorious deeds. But as he rises to rejoice. Not Herod, but an angel leads.

Mrs. Signorini, with poetic instinct, pictures the simultaneousness of the angel's departure and the apostle's recovery of self-consciousness. The seraph's wing Outspread in parting flight, with snowy grace. Awhile it hovered; then, like radiant star From its orbit loosed, when wearing up High o'er the arch of night. Then Peter knew.

Peter's coming to himself; his momentary reflection; his detention at the door by the joyous inadvertence of the servant; the surprise of the praying band, not so much as the fact of deliverance as the time and manner; Peter's account to the wondering assembly; his direction that the circumstance be narrated to James, the Lord's brother, and superintending of the church in Jerusalem; and his own judicious retirement—all made this one of the most vividly-realistic narratives upon the sacred page.

Mosaic P on the Commentaries.

Kept in prison—but What is this but? Mere prayers, yet a single word of prayer can overturn the power of hell. Williger. . . . Prayer without ceasing: Revised Version, earnestly. Luke uses same word to describe Jesus' prayer in Gethsemane. . . . Peter was sleeping: He had slept in Gethsemane through the weakness of the flesh; now he sleeps in prison by the strength of his faith. Arnot. . . . And behold (verse 7): Some time between 3 and 6 o'clock the angel proceeded to enter the prison chamber. Schaaf. . . . Gird thyself (verse 8): The angel did not clothe Peter; it was needless. Bengel. The angel departed: For by this time Peter could care for himself. Bengel. . . . A damsel named Rhoda: A touching instance of the genuine fraternal equality existing between masters and servants. Lange. . . . mighty conquerors, treasures up that of a poor girl for his church in all ages. Pasquier Quenel. . . . Intending after the Passover: Agrippa, fond of theatrical shows, intended to convert that trial into an exhibition for the amusement of the people. Lange. . . . Beckoning with the hand (verse 17): Peter's first thought after deliverance was to give praise to God. He declares how the Lord had delivered him. Ap. Past. . . . Went into another place: It was more dignified that he should repair to another place than to hide himself in the city. Lange. . . . The Lord took away Peter from the church precisely at a time when it was most severely tried, in order that it might learn to sustain itself without his aid. Williger.

The Teacher's Quiver.

1. This incident illustrates finely the nature, use, and power of prayer. . . . 2. Prayer will not bring supernatural deliverance now. It will give light to see the way, courage to take it, persistence to keep it. . . . 3. Many are fettered by invisible chains: are in prison, though walking abroad. . . . 4. Deliverance was delayed to the last moment, that the faith of the church might be tested, and that the utmost advantage might accrue to Peter. He was a better apostle for that experience. . . . 5. The teacher's sleep soundly is not improbable. The police detailed to watch in the white house, recently were discovered encoiled in the luxurious upholstery, and all fast asleep. They would have been discharged from the force but for entreaty to the President, and are doing night work in the open by way of penance. . . . 6. In evidence of historical accuracy of Luke, it should be observed that there was no king in Judea for thirty years before this date, nor ever afterward. So that the use of the title, king, would have been an anachronism except in the period in which this event transpired.

TWO years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; to-day Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same in hundreds of communities. Wherever the good cough remedy of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy becomes known the people will have nothing else. For sale by druggists.

The Republican county central committee will meet next week to fix the time and place for the county convention. There is a very general feeling that there should not be an early convention except among candidates. Those who feel that things are ripe for them want the matter settled as soon as possible; but there are no contents that will engender any bitterness, at least none has developed so far, and there is no reason why there should be any. There are several candidates for representative, among them Thomas L. Lewis, president of the Ohio miners' association; C. C. Carroll and A. H. Mitchell, of St. Clairsville, and E. R. Armstrong, of Armstrong's mills. For treasurer, John D. Hays, the present deputy, is a formidable candidate: A. O. Barnes and James McGreggor are also in the field, while Charles W. Lancaster and W. C. Berghthal of this city, are also open for that engagement. The last named announced his candidacy only this week and seems to have struck such popular favor in other parts of the county as to make him a strong candidate.

A Frenchman by the name of Ragless, living near S. O. Cummins', met with a serious accident Thursday afternoon. He was driving a pony, attached to a buggy down the new pike from the cemetery, when the animal became unmanageable and ran off, coming down the pike at a rapid rate. When near the Novelty stamping works a wheel came off, but the horse continued until it reached the United States laundry, where it ran into the curb and threw the old man out, breaking the buggy all to pieces. Mr. Ragless was taken to his home, where it was found that no bones were broken, but he was bruised considerably and will be laid up for some time.

Harry Shepherd, a Crawford boy and one named Crimmel, were arrested by the police Thursday evening for being intoxicated and raising a disturbance. They all ran when the officers made their appearance, but were caught later. They will probably be sent to jail.

Anton La Roche and Charles Bippus will give a reception in Armory hall next Wednesday night to the members of their dancing class and a few invited guests.
